Theatre UAF is proud to help serve the community.

Beginning with 93's The Velveteen Rabbit, Theatre UAF began inviting Fairbanks Big Brothers / Big Sisters to previews of select mainstage shows. We feel Big Brothers / Big Sisters does an incredible job of helping support the needs of Fairbanks youth. If you'd like to help, or if you're interested in getting more information about Fairbanks Big Brothers / Big Sisters, please call them at 452-8110.

Theatre UAF also donates tickets to many community-service groups including the Fairbanks North Star Borough Senior Citizen Activity Program. For more information about this group, please call 459-1000.

As you may be aware, last year Theatre UAF was proud to salute the man who formed the Theatre Department at UAF, Mr. Lee H. Salisbury, by renaming the Fine Arts Theatre after him. The official renaming ceremony took place Saturday, March 19, 1994. We are continuing to work on the renovations to the "house" of the theatre that were started by this event. If you would like to help us with the renovations, please send a contribution to Theatre UAF, P.O. Box 755700 Fairbanks, AK 99775-5700, Attn.: Renovation. There's also still time to take part in our "Buy a Seat" drive. Further information about this drive is available at the box office, or by calling 474-7752.
A Little About The Cast and Crew

Alex Beaudreault, is a senior theatre major who has been involved in many UAF shows and several community shows. His most recent credits are the father in the in The Glass Menagerie and Gabby Hayes, Soviet Soldier and Donald Trump in American.

Jessica Beck, is a third year student at UAF. Her most recent credits are American, Tree for Me, and Line. Her hobbies include cleaning house and chasing Dromio.

Angela Brownfield, is a freshman Theatre major at UAF. Shakespeare is her hobby and selling coffee is her job. Her credits include the Summer Fine Arts Camp productions of The Foreigner, and Arsenic and Old Lace. She's also been Puck in A Midsummer Nights Dream, and Trinculo in The Tempest. She's thrilled to finally be playing a Shakespearean female. (Please make no mention of the "V" word.)

Jason Chapman, Lord High Executioner, has finally been forced from backstage. Involved with just about everything since he got here, Jason would like to dedicate his performance to his folks back home in Detroit.

Nell Chapman, is a non degree student here at UAF. She loves coffee, theatre, and Shakespeare, hates the cold, writing bio's and Shakespeare. Her last role was in The Little Princess as the title character.

Ilena Lee Cramer, Set Designer, is a graduating senior at UAF. Actress, dancer, bartender, artist, ceramicist, this is Ilena's first attempt at scenic design. President of UAF's Student Drama Association, Ilena is planning on continuing her education on the Graduate level - primarily interested in theatre directing. She directed last years' Approaching Lavender for SDA.

Tony Evans, formally known as Anthony Douglas Evans likes to be called Tony. Unfortunately, certain irritating people, such as his director and his mother call him Anthony. Tony is a junior at UAF and also a Theatre major. His most recent credit are American and the Winter Short Line.

Sarah A.D. Hartley, Lighting Designer. This is Sarah's sixth lighting design for Theatre UAF or Student Drama Association. Other designs include: A Christmas Carol, Tartuffe, and The Yellow Wallpaper. Sarah is a Senior Theatre major who is finally graduating this May.

Karl Kalen, is a 23-year old lifelong resident of Fairbanks. This is his 5th Shakespearean show. He dices, he splices, he soliloquies! Ask for him by name!

Gina Kalloch, This is Gina's first appearance on the UAF stage; although she has been active with Fairbanks Drama Association for some time. Last seen in FDA's Post Mortem last year she has been busy backstage as a Technical Director (Gina is a journeyman carpenter), Production Manager and Stage Manager. Gina and her husband David Evans also direct their children Misti (15) and Sido (10).

Shannon Luster, is one of the few individuals who can sum up their entire theatrical experience in one word: AGGLETHUMP!

Tara Maginnis, Costume Designer, is listed on page 15 under Faculty and Staff.

Toby Mollett, has been acting since third grade. His first Shakespearean role was Puck in A Midsummer Nights Dream. The experience changed him in a variety of magical and tree related-ways. He wants you all to know that you are witches and sorcerers and that you scare him very much. Thanks for coming. Bye-bye now.

Shawn Murphy, is making his first appearance in a UAF production. His most recent credits are FDA's Lost in Yonkers and Aslan in The Lion the Wicth and the Wardrobe. He is also a firm believer that Shakespeare is GOD. Any other disciples can contact him after the show.

Thomas Riccio, Stage Director, is listed on page 15 under Faculty and Staff.

Melissa Ritter, This is the first theatre piece in which she has performed, but she has been involved back stage for several years. She loves Shakespeare and his time period, so she is having fun. She plans to get her Ph.D. in English and History, eventually.

Notes From the Director

It would be difficult to think of an historical style that has affected theatre and popular culture more than the Italian Comedia del'Arte. With its reliance on stereotyped characters, situations, broad physical gestures, large emotions, and clowning, it represents the very theatricality of theatre. While performing across Europe from 1550 to 1750, Comedia troupes developed large audiences composed of all social classes. And this very feature is what attracted, and was evolved into a fine art, by William Shakespeare. Though Comedia is today seldom performed in its historical form, it nonetheless asserts a strong influence on popular entertainment. The like of Charlie Chaplin, W.C. Fields, Bert Lahr, the Marx Brothers, Laurel and Hardy, Jerry Lewis, Jim Carey, and much of television's situation comedies trace their origins to Comedia del'Arte.

The Comedy of Errors is one of Shakespeare's earliest, if not first play. The play's ability to succeed today, more than four hundred years after its first production, is remarkable. Equally significant is how the play melded techniques into a new form of theatre. Shakespeare, the young actor turned playwright, was both an educated and practical man of the theatre. Inspired by Plautus's Menaechmi (which he read in Latin), The Comedy of Errors combines Comedia with a young and still forming modern English language, and Shakespeare's poetic genius, to establish a proving ground for his subsequent theatrical style. Combining the popular, (which is best embodied by Comedia, with the classical and poetic, would come to define Shakespeare's work.

The Comedy of Errors is still alive for us because it appeals to the contradiction that lives within all of us-- the sublime and the ridiculous, the doubleness and the duplicity that is very much a part of our modern world, and like in the play, is often amusing, sometimes confusing, and always in search of remedy.

Anatoly Antohin, playwright and stage director, who has staged many shows at UAF. He received his MFA from the Moscow Institute of Cinematography. Anatoly has won several awards in drama and his plays have been produced in many European countries. In the USA, he has taught and directed at the University of Connecticut, New York University, and Hollins College in Virginia. Last year he was a Fulbright Scholar in Russia.

Amy Fautland, is Theatre UAF's Department Secretary and Box Office Manager. She holds a degree in Theatre and Education from Biola University. She has a background in both technical theatre and acting. Besides running the box office she is an instructor for the UAF Summer Fine Arts Camp, and the director of The Drama Project, a local drama studio.

Dana Hart, Guest Lecturer, holds degrees in both Theatre and English from UAF. He has been a member of Actor's Equity Association since 1976. He has worked in radio & TV in NYC and last appeared there Off-Broadway in 1986 in the play called Holy Ghosts. He now lives in Ester and is a member of the Board of Directors for the Fairbanks Drama Association and Fairbanks Children's Theatre.

Gorden O. Hedahl is Dean of the College of Liberal Arts and Professor of Theatre at UAF. He holds degrees in speech and theatre from North Dakota, and a Ph.D. in Theatre Arts from Minnesota. He served twenty-two years with the University of Wisconsin System. He directed Noises Off at UAF during the 1993-94 Season, and will be directing The Mystery of Edwin Drood this April.

Travis Kulp, Shop Supervisor and Master Electrician, is waiting for his next chance to Australian style repel from the lighting grid. After all, one can't work all the time. He also designed lighting for SDA's Phoenix Too Frequent.

Tara Maginnis, UAF Costume Designer, has retuned after a year spent in St. Petersburg Russia. Tara has a Ph.D. in Theatre from the University of Georgia, and has also studied at San Francisco State, College of Marin and California State Univ. Fresno. She has also written numerous articles on costume and related topics for Theatre Design and Technology, Costume (UK), Theatre Crafts, Ladies Gallery, College Monthly and The St. Petersburg Press. Besides doing Costume Designs for UAF, Tara recently designed costumes for FLOT's Guys and Dolls.

Kade Mendelowitz wears many hats at UAF: Lighting Designer, Business Manager, Scenic Design Advisor and Technical Director. Originally from New York, Kade loves the variety of arts Fairbanks has to offer. Kade's most recent projects include designing scenery and lighting for the recent FLOT production of Guys and Dolls, and the upcoming Northstar Ballets' Nutcracker.

Jeannine Patané is Theatre UAF's Costume Shop Supervisor. Originally from New York, she is now a Fairbanks resident. She has been employed in various theatrical and costume-related jobs in Fairbanks, and operates her own business, Shaman's needle, when she isn't busy at the University. She also volunteers her time instructing and overseeing students in the independent study- Stage Management class.

Thomas Riccio has directed over a dozen plays for UAF including Tuma Theatre's Qayaq, The Eagle's Gift, Child from the Seas, and Utetmun. Prior to UAF, Tom was Artistic Director of Chicago's Organic Theatre Company and Dramaturg/Resident Director at the Cleveland Play House. He has also directed at New York City's famed La Mama Etc. Over recent years he has worked with the Sakha National Theatre (Yakutsk), The Natal Performing Arts Council (South Africa), Tukak Teatret (Denmark), Center for the Arts (Zambia), Riksteatern and Vastana Teater (Sweden).

This Spring, Theatre UAF is pleased to announce our Visiting Guest Artist, Robert Putnam. Bob has worked in Fairbanks through the Fairbanks Summer Arts Festival, and will be serving as Choreographer for our production of The Mystery of Edwin Drood. He will also be offering specialty courses in Stage Combat and Acting for the Camera. Bob has an extensive and multifaceted 20 year career in theatre. He has worked as an actor, singer, dancer, director, choreographer and manager.
